

UNIVERSITY OF SWAZILAND
FACULTY OF HEALTH SCIENCES
DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNITY HEALTH NURSING
DIPLOMA IN GENERAL NURSING SCIENCE

FINAL EXAMINATION PAPER DECEMBER: 2011

TITLE OF PAPER: NORMAL PSYCHOLOGICAL DEVELOPMENT 1
COURSE CODE : NUR 452

MARKS ALLOCATION: 75

INSTRUCTIONS : THIS PAPER CONSISTS OF THREE QUESTIONS.
 ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS.

DO NOT OPEN THIS PAPER UNTIL TOLD TO DO SO.

QUESTION 1

This question consist of section A and B. Answer all questions in the two sections.

Indicate whether each statement bellow is true or false by writing either T OR F against the number, e.g. 77 =T

1. The concept “normal psychological development” refers to the proper development of cognitive and emotional dimensions, since these are the most psychological parts of personality.
2. “I am convinced that everybody will pass in this class if we are hard working” is a normal psychological statement that reflects the principle of the cognitive part.
3. The normal psychological development of individuals is intrapersonal and does not depend on the external social forces.
4. The understanding of normal psychological development is dependent on the mastering of the concept of intrapersonal and interpersonal holism.
5. The principle of the holistic approach is that if one part is stimulated then the other part will also be involved. This can be further translated that the development of one part is the development of the other parts of personality.
6. Sending a message to get a response is a principle of stimulus- response in normal psychological development.
7. The secret of normal psychological development of the internal environment is in embedded in the external environment.
8. There is a great reciprocal relationship between the internal and external environments.
9. The libido energy according to Sigmund Freud is important because it provides the necessary energy to the ID to discharge feelings during normal psychological development.
10. Remembering and/or memory in normal psychological development are about reliving some experiences in the pre-conscious level of personality, according to Freud’s theory.
11. Receiving information for psychological development is not necessarily dependent on the five senses.
12. The key strategy in empowering individuals in psychological development is making them understand who they are.
13. The understanding of self and others is about engaging in analysis and synthesis of both intra and inter-personal science.
14. The unconscious level of personality according to Freud’s theory houses some of the undesirable experiences.
15. People do not have access of the content of the unconscious level unless they are asleep.
16. The pre-conscious level of personality does not act as a temporary and immediate data bank among the three levels of personality.
17. The cognitive incorporation of information in the mental framework (schema) is part of the development of personality.
18. According to Piaget’s theory of cognition the assimilating of information in the schema is always immediately or over time followed by accommodation which is the alteration of the schema.

19. Adequate moral development, according to Freud is a process that is completed out-side the superego.
20. Moral related behaviour, is an indication of adequately developed superego.
21. Trust versus mistrust is both primary and secondary socialization conflict development.
22. Trust versus mistrust is solely an issue of childhood development and it has nothing to do with adulthood development.
23. Integrity versus despair is an unfortunate conflict that is not influenced by any psychological factors because it originates from the internal environment.
24. The application of the intra-inter-personal psychological development is a fallacy than a reality and it may cause some discourse regarding logical reasoning.
25. Normal psychological development is not easily exhibited in individuals' behaviour.
26. Normal psychological development in personality is not a combination of multiple contributing factors due to the holistic existence of personality.
27. The development of mental disorders is an indication of abnormal psychological factors prevalence in society.
28. During normal psychological development, signals emanate from the internal environment only.
29. Issues of the external environment are totally responsible for the nerve breakdown in the internal environment.
30. Issues of normal psychological development are not tangible but only observable.

SECTION B: In this section chose the correct answer from the provided options.

31. The reason for choosing the holistic approach in explaining the normal psychological development in psychiatric nursing is because:
 - a) The five part of an individual are interdependent.
 - b) The external environment does not depend on the internal environment.
 - c) The internal environment depends on the external environment.
 - d) None of the above.
32. The five senses are essential in normal psychological development because:
 - a) These provide past experiences.
 - b) These structures provide the here and now experiences.
 - c) These act as the gate ways of information into the brain.
 - d) None of the above.
33. The concept of psychosocial in the real world is concerned with:
 - a) Social and cognitive interaction.
 - b) Social interaction
 - c) Psychomotor activities.
 - d) None of the above.

34. All the theories in normal psychological development focus each on:
- The principles of holistic being.
 - Specific field of psychology.
 - Issues that are clearly internal or external internal.
 - None of the above.
35. The milestone development of the psycho-analytical theory of Freud is more of:
- The physical part of personality
 - The social part of personality.
 - The spiritual part of personality.
 - All of the above.
36. Serious commitment to church services in normal psychological development is observed as:
- Cognitive development.
 - Spiritual development.
 - Both emotional and physical development.
 - Psychosocial development
37. Cognitive growth and development is dependent on:
- The nature of schema formation.
 - The assimilation more than accommodation.
 - Accommodation due to impact of the external factors.
 - None of the above.
38. Behaviour in normal psychological development is:
- An issue of co-incidence.
 - Based on the principle of cause and effect.
 - Principle of positive response and stimulus.
 - Stimulus and multiple responses
39. Which of the following statements below is occurs more during behaviour in normal psychological development:
- Stimuli receiving.
 - Responses.
 - Provocation.
 - None of the above.
40. The theory of cognitive development emphasizes the development of the emotional part of personality:
- Not correct.
 - Partly correct.

- c) The emotional part is not related to cognition.
- d) None of the above

41. The psychosocial theory in normal psychological development concentrates more on issues of the:

- a) Emotional part.
- b) Physical part.
- c) Internal environment.
- d) External environment.

42. In normal psychological development the emotional part is mostly used for:

- a) Motivation.
- b) Knowledge acquisition.
- c) None specific behaviour.
- d) Thinking and responding.

43. Long term and/or short term memory is a package of the:

- a) Conscious level.
- b) Unconscious level.
- c) Conscious and pre-conscious levels
- d) None of the above.

44. Person centred theory is about issues that prevail in:

- a) Society.
- b) The external environment.
- c) Families.
- d) The internal environment.

45. The holistic phenomenon:

- a) Is not a concept of the person centred theory.
- b) Is a principle of the person centred theory.
- c) Is not a concept of a theory in normal psychological development.
- d) None of the above.

46. Which statement in the following options reflects some of the parts of personality.

- a) Thinking, smiling and attending a meeting.
- b) Crying, Sitting and smelling.
- c) Loving, encouraging and colour reflecting.
- d) None of the above.

47. Believing is a component of:

- a) The cognitive part.
- b) The spiritual part.
- c) Emotional and spiritual part.
- d) None of the above.

48. Stimulus- response can be defined as an:

- a) Infinite process in life.
- b) Encouraging process in normal psychological development.
- c) Active process that exist in pre-conscious mind.
- d) None of the above.

49. Intrapersonal development of personality is largely influenced:

- a) In the individuals without involving society.
- b) In society without involving individuals.
- c) In the significant part of personality.
- d) In between the internal and external environments.

50. Normal psychological development of the physical part of personality is:

- a) Not all tangible.
- b) Not all of it practically implementable.
- c) A scientific puzzle that is not easy to solve.
- d) None of the above.

QUESTION 2

The promotion of normal psychological growth and development in individuals could be enhanced by a number of professional interventions. In your own observation discuss how consulting and training, mental school health programs, and forensic services can be used to enhance normal psychological growth and development of the youth in Swaziland.

- a) School health programs. (10 marks)
- b) Consulting and training. (5 marks)

QUESTION 3

It is essential that mental health of children is promoted in Swaziland. Discuss two reasons why you think mental health of children should be promoted.

(10 marks)